Part II Keynote Speeches

Keynote Speech 1: Capturing the Potential of Absorptive Capacity in the Digital Age

Prof. Felix Arndt,

Department of Management, University of Guelph, Canada

Biography: Felix Arndt is a Professor and the John F Wood Chair in Entrepreneurship in the Department of Management at the Gordon S Lang School of Business and Economics, University of Guelph, Canada, and a Research Fellow at the Center for Business and Sports of the Stockholm School of Economics, Sweden. Dr. Arndt’s research agenda is centrally driven by the question of how novelty/change comes about in business settings. His work has been published or is about to be published in the Academy of Management Collections, the Journal of International Business Studies, the Journal of Management Studies, the Academy of Management Review, Human Resource Management among many others.

Abstract: “Absorptive capacity” a widely studied construct in management research, remains theoretically underdeveloped and practically largely irrelevant. In this presentation, Professor Arndt present new ideas to conceptualize an organizations’ abilities to recognize, assimilate, and apply external knowledge. He presents ideas for different conceptualizations of absorptive capacity in the digital age. In addition, absorptive capacity research is classified in four schools of thought that have the potential to leverage progress in this area of research.

Keynote Speech 2: Impact of Leadership Development on Women’s Individual and Organizational Behaviours

Prof. Karen Hopkins,

School of Social Work, University of Maryland, USA

Biography: Dr. Karen Hopkins is Professor and Co-Director of the Human-Centered Leadership in Health and Human Services Certificate at the School of Social Work, University of Maryland. She is the Academic Coordinator for the Graduate MSW/MBA dual degree and teaches courses in human service management and leadership and performance management. Her research with nonprofit and public agencies is related to supervision, management, and leadership practices and outcomes, performance management, workforce development, and organizational learning and capacity building. She is a national peer reviewer for the Standards of Excellence Institute certification for nonprofits. She has served on the Boards of the Network for Social Work Management, Society for Social Work and Research (SSWR), and the Association of Community Organization and Social Administration (ACOSA). She is Co-Editor-in-Chief of the Human Services Organizations: Management, Leadership, and Governance journal. She received a PhD from the University of Chicago, MSW from the University of Pittsburgh, and a BS from the Pennsylvania State University.

Abstract: Despite the prevalence of women employed within health and human services, women have been especially underrepresented, unprepared, and unsupported in leadership development and roles. Our presentation will focus on our research with a sample of racially diverse women in a leadership development program and highlight the impact of their leadership learning and coaching on changes in individual, collective, and organizational behaviours. As women participants moved from learning to action, they applied a range of new ways of behaving and performing in their organizations that reflect more inclusive leadership styles and practices. We will also describe a Human-Centered Leadership development model focused on the unique leadership experiences and development needs of women that emphasizes meaningfulness, equity, agility and impact.

Keywords: Leadership development, Women, Health and human services

Keynote Speech 3: The Extension of Quality Principles into Modern Management

Prof. Gilles Lambert, EM Strasbourg Business School, Strasbourg University, France

Biography: Gilles Lambert is a professor of management sciences at the Business School of Strasbourg University in France. His research work is in the field of corporate finance and focuses on real options, the performance of family businesses, and governance from a diversity perspective within the boards of directors of companies. In the field of organizational change, his work deals with the link between quality and learning, innovation management and creativity.

Abstract: The preoccupation with quality in our production systems has a history stretching back almost a hundred years. This requirement has accompanied the rise of our industries in the global race for large-scale production. In this contribution, we propose to look back at these quality approaches, discussing the contributions and traces they have left in the management of our contemporary companies. In the face of numerous works extolling the benefits of ceremonial adoption of such approaches, few have attempted to evaluate them objectively (Zbaracki 1998; Mukherjee, 1998; Bénézech & ali. 2001; Boiral 2003; Lambert & Ouédraogo, 2008). This is no doubt due to the fact that the standards, reference systems or certifications that embody them are essentially organizational in nature. And nothing is more difficult to apprehend than a change in organization. This is particularly true as quality standards can be interpreted in very different ways by companies, sometimes as mere labels recognizing excellence, sometimes as genuine tools for change on which to build (Lambert & Ouédraogo 2010; Arab & Lambert, 2020). Here, we look back at this evolution and attempt to identify the principles at the very roots of these organizational change tools, which we believe are essential for modern management. Beyond the idea of highlighting best-practices and systematic process measurement, we show that the use of intuition and the role of organizational slacks, both vital in innovation dynamics, are at the heart of quality principles (Lambert; 2023).

Keywords: Total Quality Management, ISO 9000, Organization Change, Management Skills

Keynote Speech 4: Supplier Selection and Personalized Pricing in a Supply Chain

Prof. Jing Chen, Department of Management Science & Information Systems, Faculty of Management, Dalhousie University, Canada

Biography: Jing Chen holds the William A. Black Chair in Commerce and is a Professor in the Department of Management Science & Information Systems at the Faculty of Management, Dalhousie University. Her research interests include competitive channel and supply chain management, the interface between operations management and marketing, and customer returns. She has published over 90 papers in journals. She is currently serving as an Associate Editor for The International Journal of Management Science (OMEGA), The Journal of the Operational Research Society (JORS), and International Transactions in Operational Research (ITOR).

Abstract: This study examines how a retailer chooses suppliers and sets pricing strategies. The retailer can either select a single supplier, offering one product, or engage with two suppliers to provide quality-differentiated products. The retailer also needs to decide between uniform pricing and personalized pricing. The study finds that a retailer may prefer using both suppliers, even if one product does not sell. If the retailer opts for a single supplier, it chooses personalized pricing to maximize profit by adjusting prices based on consumer valuation. When selecting both suppliers, the pricing strategy depends on the cost of collecting consumer data. The retailer might use uniform or personalized pricing for both products or mix the two approaches, depending on the products' relative selling efficiency and the cost of collecting data on consumer valuation. When product quality can be endogenously determined, the retailer is more likely to engage both suppliers and adopt personalized pricing strategies.

Keynote Speech 5: Technology-Enabled Resilient Transparent Supply Chain Management

*Prof. Md. Mamun Habib,
School of Business & Entrepreneurship (SBE),
Independent University, Bangladesh; Visiting Scientist,

Finally, He is involved with QS World University Ranking/Times Higher Education Ranking as an academician.

Abstract: This keynote speech would demonstrate the theory and evolution of Supply Chain Management (SCM), as the least innovations in research, as well as highlight the chronological perspective of SCM in terms of the time frame in different areas of manufacturing and service industries. The objective of SCM is to incorporate activities across and within organizations for providing the customer/stakeholders value.

There are several attempts made by researchers and practitioners to appropriately define SCM. Amidst fierce competition in all industries, SCM has gradually been embraced as a proven managerial approach to achieving sustainable profits and growth. This keynote would illustrate SCM from the raw material materials to finished products, i.e., suppliers to consumer at the various industries. Due to the application of AI, Automation, Blockchain, Bigdata, etc., this keynote speech demonstrates technology-enabled SCM, eventually resilient transparent SCM for various industries.

Keynote Speech 6: AI and Database Applications Driving Business Innovation

Prof. Elzbieta Pustulka,

*School of Business, University of Applied Sciences and Arts
Northwestern Switzerland (FHNW in German), Switzerland*

Biography: Dr. Pustulka is a Professor at the University of Applied Sciences and Arts of Northwestern Switzerland (called FHNW in German). She teaches databases and programming and does applied research in databases, machine learning and natural language processing.

She holds an MA from the Jagiellonian University of Krakow in Poland, a BA from the Open University in UK, and an MPhil and a PhD from the University of Glasgow in Scotland. She has worked both in the industry and in academia, in Poland, Scotland, Germany, and Switzerland.

She supervised PhD students in Scotland, France and Switzerland in the areas of databases, bioinformatics, and visualisation. She held a research fellowship from the Medical Research Council UK and a Marie-Curie fellowship from the European Union. She is active in peer review and grant application reviewing for the European Science Foundation, Research Councils UK and BMBF (Germany).

Abstract: We focus on applied research which helps companies develop innovative products. Digitalisation is one of the main innovation drivers and leads to novel solutions which benefit from artificial intelligence, natural language processing, advanced databases and other technologies. Industry wants to innovate and approaches academics to provide technical expertise allowing them to go beyond the state of the art in computing. This talk will discuss three collaborative industrial developments which took advantage of recent developments based on machine learning technologies. The work covers the following business areas: gig platforms, insurance, and business information systems, also known as ERP. To round off, we present a fun development: an SQL learning game which is very popular with our students who take database courses at the FHNW.

Part III Oral Presentation

Oral Presentation Guidelines

- ✚ The oral presentations include the forms of onsite presentations and online presentations via Microsoft Teams (MS Teams) meeting. The online presentations include pre-recorded video presentations and oral presentations on live via MS Teams. The regular oral presentation is 15 minutes including 2-3 minutes for Q&A; the invited speech is 20 minutes including 2-3 minutes for Q&A.
- ✚ For onsite oral presentations, please make the following preparations:
  - 1) The presentation PowerPoint or PDF should be formatted with figures and tables, plain text is inappropriate;
  - 2) Speakers are recommended to bring their presentation data in the form of PPT or PDF by a USB memory stick and send one copy to the organizing committee as a backup. For those who have not sent a file to the committee or any update needed, please copy it to the laptop in the session room about 15 minutes before the start time, and make sure it could be normally displayed;

- ✚ For oral presentations on live, please refer to the official instructions on how to share content via MS Teams before the conference.
- ✚ The pre-recorded video should be uploaded to DMI2024 online submission system before October 15, 2024 in the format of .mp4 and time duration should be 15-20 mins.
- ✚ Visit Here to know How to record a video with PowerPoint.
- ✚ The PPT either for pre-recorded video presentation or oral presentation on live could design as you like with requirements as below:
  - ✓ The conference logo should be added to each PPT slide
  - ✓ Title, presenter and affiliation information should be indicated in the first slide
  - ✓ Each slide should be concise, uncluttered and readable from a distance
  - ✓ Include only key words and phrases for visual reinforcement
- ✚ All speakers should inform the Session Chair (before the start of your Session) that you are presented.
- ✚ Signed and stamped electronic oral presentation certificate would be issued via e-mail after the conference.
- ✚ About the Best Presentation:
  - 1) Each session will select one Best Oral Presentation, please ensure your Paper ID (DMI ****) is shown correctly on the first or last page at your presentation data.
  - 2) The best presenter of each session will be awarded with free registration for the next DMI.

Assessment Sheet Sample

DMI 2024 Oral Presentation Assessment

Dear participants,

After carefully listening to the presentations of this session, please kindly recommend two excellent Oral Presentations with reference to the following evaluation criteria.

The Session Chair will count the votes from each presentation and select ONE Best Oral Presentation in this session. If there is a tie, the Session Chair will make the final decision.

The winner will be announced at the official website after the conference.

You can refer to the following Criteria:

Items	Assessment
Content	Right, Logical, Original, Well-Structured
Language	Standard, Clear, Fluent, Natural
Performance	Spirited Appearance, Dress Appropriately, Behaves Naturally
PPT	Layout, Structure, Typeset, Animation, Multimedia
Reaction	Build a Good Atmosphere, Speech Time Control Properly

Please write down paper ID and give reasons for your recommendation:

Paper ID	Reasons

Evaluated by: _____ (Paper ID: _____)

Note: When the session finished, please fill it out and give it to the Session Chair so that the Best Oral Presentation in this session can be selected.

●自驾车来校路线

1. 沿京通快速路（通燕高速方向）西马庄收费站出口走辅路，见第一个红绿灯左拐前行 600 米即到。
2. 沿朝阳北路由西向东前行（几乎接近终点时）见北京物资学院路标左拐即到。
3. 沿通（州）顺（义）路由北向南前行见朝阳北路路标右拐，见北京物资学院路标右拐即到。

Part V Acknowledgements

On behalf of the DMI2024 Organizing Committee, we would like to take this opportunity to express our sincere gratitude to our participants. Without their support and contributions, we would not be able to hold the conference successfully in this special year. We would also like to express our acknowledgements to the Technical Program Committee members who have given their professional guidance and valuable advice as reviewers.

Special Thanks go to the supports from Beijing Wuzi University and Xiangnan University. Their continuous support and valuable opinions help us to meet the challenges of organizing the conference in this moment and those yet to come.

Below are the lists of the organizing committee members. For those who contribute to the success of the conference organization without listing the name here, we would love to say thanks as well.
